|  |  | (B) cereals have the highest requirements of moisture and soil types (C) cereal can be grown with less labour and yield of food is high (D) all of the mentioned Answer: (D) all of the mentioned  | requirements &amp; soil types required for the production/ Growing of Cereals in Agricultural fields. Option (C) "cereal can be grown with less labour and yield of food is high" OPTION C - Describes the labour requirement &amp; yield of Cereals. Both Option B &amp; C are given in terms of agricultural field level scenario where production, labour, water requirement for plants &amp; soil are discussed which are not related to Food Preservation. Food Preservation techniques are used/applied only after harvesting and not before harvesting of cereals from plants. Hence, the given Option (D) All of the Mentioned is Wrong and Option (A) is the right Answer |                                       |  |
|  |  | 77 Which of the following holds untrue with respect to jam making? (A) boiling water to concentrate the mixture is an important step (B) the fruit is heated to soften it, extract pectin and then boiled rapidly to increase sugar content to about 70% (C) high methoxyl pectin is used in jam and low methoxyl in gelling agents in milk products (D) none | Q.NO.(77) In Option A "boiling water to concentrate the mixture is an important step" - there is an error in this Sentence formation and meaning which is misleading the actual answer. Boiling plain Water Doesn't Concentrate the Mixture in any way. Hence, Option A is also Untrue. Boiling the Mixture / Fruit Pulp Will Concentrate the mixture in Jam making. This should be the actual sentence. Hence, Option (A) is also correct with respect to the given options.  | Alternative "D" is the correct answer | Hence the candidates who have selected Option "D" will get full marks |

|  |  | 106 The two factors determining 'Food Security' in India are: (A) green revolution and reduced wastage of food (B) production of sufficient food and nutritional value of food (C) sustainable agriculture and minimal use of agrochemicals (D) availability of food and access to money Answer: (D) availability of food and access to money | Q.NO.(106) Definition as per Govt. of INDIA FOOD SECURITY means Availability, Accessibility and Affordability of food to all people at all times. The given Answer Option (D) "availability of food and access to money" is partially correct. Access to MONEY doesn't Guarantee FOOD. Availability of Food depends on Agricultural Farming techniques, Inputs given, seed varieties, soil, water availability, Climatic Conditions, Natural Disasters effect on crops etc. From the start of Green Revolution in the year 1965, Extensive &amp; Excessive usage of Pesticides, Chemical Fertilizers which degraded soil health &amp; reduced production, increased pests and diseases &amp; Human Health damage. Along with the arrival of HYBRID HIGH which led to extinction of NATIVE Varieties. YIELDING SEED varieties Now, Government of India &amp; ORGANIC even FSSAI, FAO are Promoting FARMING, Sustainable Agriculture and minimal use of Agrochemicals which is necessary for the future of mankind &amp; INDIA for its growing population needs &amp; to maintain Food | Alternative "D" is the correct answer | Hence the candidates who have selected Option "D" will get full marks |
